SPRING/SUMMER 2021

Welcome

2021 marks Policy Press' 25th anniversary and 5 years since Bristol University Press' inception.

It is a challenging time to celebrate such milestones, yet in reflecting on our progress we strengthened our determination to support positive social change. Our publishing, culture and practice over 25 years demonstrates our team's values and concerns which I believe are ever-more needed in these difficult times.

Several initiatives show our 'publishing with a purpose' ethos:

- Rapid Responses and COVID-19 Collection are new interventions to influence thinking, policy and practice. Written by leading scholars, policy makers, charity workers and activists, the digital-only Rapid Responses publish in just 6-8 weeks, while the COVID-19 Collection offers cross-disciplinary perspectives on the pandemic.
- Our commitment to sustainable Open Access (OA) through Gold and Green routes is crucial to opening up evidence and analysis to researchers, practitioners and policy makers around the globe. Our Research4Life partnership is also vital, giving free or low-cost access to all our work to low-income countries.
- Equality, diversity and inclusion (EDI) has been fundamental to our ethos for 25 years and our five-year strategy underpins this commitment. Diversity of thought, belief and background of our authors, editors and staff enable us to publish a wide range of voices that challenge accepted norms and thinking.

- As a publisher focused on addressing global social challenges, we were early signatories to the recent UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) Publishers Compact, a collaboration between the United Nations and the International Publishers Association to accelerate progress to achieve the SDGs by 2030.

I hope that you find much of interest in this catalogue and I wish you a safe and productive 2021.

Following the COVID-19 pandemic, many of us will have become more aware of the ways in which the law can impact our lives. As we look at events happening across the world, it feels more important than ever to understand how the legal system works, where injustices are taking place, and how the law might need to develop to better respond to changes in our global society.

Our Law list has a focus on justice and human rights, exploring the way the law works to protect the things that are most important to our society. We publish authors whose experience and expertise puts them in a unique position to examine weaknesses in the law, authors who can shine a spotlight on injustice and put forward compelling proposals for change in policy and practice. We are actively seeking to commission work which engages with contemporary sociolegal issues and explores the way the law is responding, or failing to respond, to everyday challenges in local and global contexts.

If you have an idea for a new book that fits with our approach and which you would like to discuss, please contact our editor Helen Davis

BRISTOL SHORTS POLICY AND PRACTICE

Bristol Studies in Law and Social Justice series

Series Editors: Alan Bogg, University of Bristol and Virginia Mantouvalou, University College London

Bristol Studies in Law and Social Justice explores the role of law in securing social justice in society and the economy. The focus is on 'social justice' as a normative ideal and the law as a critical tool in influencing (for good or for ill) the social structures that shape people's lives.

This international series is designed to be inclusive of a wide range of methodologies and disciplinary approaches. Contributions examine these issues from multiple legal perspectives, including constitutional law, discrimination law, human rights, contract law, criminal law, migration law, labour law, social welfare law, property law, international and supranational law.

The series has a broad jurisdictional coverage, including single-country and comparative studies, as well as studies in international law.

Diverse Voices series

Series Editors: Se-shauna Wheatle, Durham University and Jonathan Herring, University of Oxford

As law faculties, academics and students increasingly realise that their reading lists are ‘pale, male and stale’ the Diverse Voices series gives readers an opportunity to hear voices that have so often been silenced; the voices of black and minority-ethnic, women, disabled, LGBTQI, working-class and neuro-atypical people.

Diverse Voices presents a groundbreaking new platform for debating and understanding the impact of the law on different marginalised groups and critiquing the law from the perspective of these groups.

Showing how diversification can enrich, embolden and energise the study of law, these textbooks offer law academics and students a unique insight into the voices which have too long been ignored by too many.

Rule and Resistance series

Series Editors: Richard Delgado and Jean Stefancic, University of Alabama

At a time of rising authoritarian rule across the globe, this impressive new series explores forms and narratives of resistance and citizens' right to resist illegitimate authority.

Interdisciplinary in nature and international in scope, these incisive, critical and topical books will get to the heart of pressing social issues in a scholarly yet accessible manner.

The series will feature contributions by top scholars from law, political science, sociology and history, as well as emerging authors who will write in an enjoyable way for a broad audience. The books will appeal to general readers keen to learn more about the world in which we live as well as students and scholars in each of these disciplines.

Justice in a Time of Austerity

Stories From a System in Crisis

Jon Robins, freelance journalist, author and journalism lecturer and
Daniel Newman, Senior Lecturer in Law, Cardiff University

"A timely and vital exposé of the pressures exerted upon our justice system by a decade of political neglect, giving a much needed voice to those who, as a result, have found themselves cut off from justice."

SECRET BARRISTER

"This book is the voice missing from the empty rhetoric of politicians and gives a stark measure of a society without due process."

MICHAEL MANSFIELD QC

How are poverty and social inequality becoming entrenched through a failing civil justice system?

This book combines investigative journalism and academic scholarship to examine how the lives of people suffering problems with benefits, debt, family, housing and immigration are made harder by cuts to the civil justice system.

Drawing on 150 interviews conducted with those denied justice, this book humanises the hostile political debates that surround legal aid issues and reveals what access to justice really means in Austerity Britain.

Law Through the Life Course

Jonathan Herring, University of Oxford

"A rich, critical and interdisciplinary exploration of the various legal frameworks which shape, reflect and affect different stages of the life course."

BEVERLEY CLOUGH, UNIVERSITY OF LEEDS

"Could not be more timely or important, Accessible and insightful, it asks us to rethink our understanding of the relationship between law and age – highly recommended."

RICHARD COLLIER, NEWCASTLE UNIVERSITY

Court decisions are typically seen as one-off interventions relating to an incident in a person's life, but a legal decision can have an impact on the person as they were and who they will become. This book is the first to explore the interactions of the law with the life course in order to understand the complex life journey as a whole.

Jonathan Herring reveals how the law privileges 'middle age' to the detriment of the whole life story and explains why an understanding of the life course is important for lawyers.

Property, Power and Politics

Why We Need to Rethink the World Power System

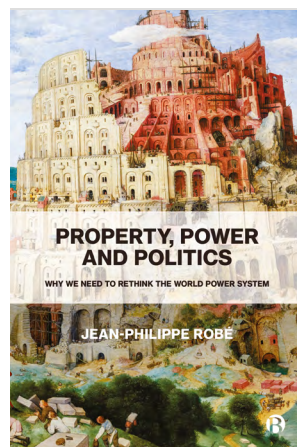

Jean-Philippe Robé, Sciences Po Law School

"An analysis of the modern world synthesising law, history and politics in a way that no one else has tried before... This is a real tour de force by one of the most original deep thinkers today."

RONEN PALAN, CITY UNIVERSITY LONDON

This revolutionary work rethinks globalization as a power system feeding from, and in competition with, the state system. Cutting across disciplines of law, politics and economics, it explores how multinational enterprises morphed into world political organisations with global reach and power, but without the corresponding responsibilities.

In illuminating how the concentration of property rights within corporations has led to the rejection of democracy as an ineffective system of government and to a rise in inequality, Robé offers a clear pathway to a fairer and more sustainable power system.

Rethinking Peace Mediation

Challenges of Contemporary Peacemaking Practice

Edited by Catherine Turner, Durham University and Martin Wählisch, European University Viadrina and Department of Political and Peacebuilding Affairs, United Nations

"This book sheds light on the nexus between mediation practice and its conceptual underpinnings. As a resource, it is a must-read for both practitioners and experts."

HANS-JOACHIM GIESSMANN, BERGHOF FOUNDATION

Written by international practitioners and scholars, this pioneering work offers insights into peace mediation practice today and the role of third parties in the resolution of armed conflicts.

The authors reveal how peace mediation has developed into a complex arena and how multifaceted assistance has become an indispensable part of it. With a policy focus and real-world examples from across the globe, the contributors offer unique reflections on new UN frameworks and the challenges and opportunities of third-party involvement.

The People in Question

Citizens and Constitutions in Uncertain Times

Jo Shaw, University of Edinburgh and Tampere University

"Anyone who wants to understand the ambivalent dynamics of populism and globalism and think about the future of citizenship and democracy will profit immensely from Shaw's scholarly work."

SANDRA SEUBERT, GOETHE-UNIVERSITÄT FRANKFURT

At a time of rising populism and debate about immigration, legal academic Jo Shaw sets out to review interactions between constitutions and citizenship.

This incisive and accessible appraisal is the first sustained treatment of the relationship between citizenship and constitutional law in a comparative and transnational perspective.

Drawing on examples from around the world, it assesses how countries' legal, political and cultural processes help to determine the boundaries of citizenship.

Cyberflashing

Recognising Harms, Reforming Laws

Clare McGlynn and Kelly Johnson, Durham University

"Anything written by McGlynn and Johnson on this topic is worth reading. Cyberflashing is a growing problem that the law struggles to tackle – this book details why that's an issue for all of us."

SOPHIE GALLAGHER, THE INDEPENDENT

Cyberflashing has been on the rise since the COVID-19 pandemic. Yet, despite its prevalence and significant harms, cyberflashing is not a criminal offence in England and Wales.

This unique and crucial book provides new in-depth analysis, understanding and insight into the nature and harms of cyberflashing and the need to reform the criminal law. The authors consider recently adopted laws in the US, Singapore and Scotland and set out proposals to criminalise cyberflashing as a sexual offence in English law.

Religion and Marriage Law

The Need for Reform

Russell Sandberg, Cardiff University

"Russell Sandberg's work in drawing together the law relating to marriage and setting it in a religious context is important, welcome and most timely."

THE RT HON SIR ANDREW MCFARLANE, PRESIDENT OF THE FAMILY DIVISION

Successive governments have made a series of progressive but ad hoc reforms to marriage law in England and Wales. This has resulted in a legal framework which is complex and controversial, especially in relation to religion.

This book provides the first accessible guide to how contemporary marriage law interacts with religion. It reveals the need for the consolidation, modernization and reform of marriage law and sets out proposals for how the transformation of these laws can be achieved.

Reforming the UK's Citizenship Test

Building Bridges, Not Barriers

Thom Brooks, Durham University

"An important addition to literature on British citizenship which provides a much-needed critique of the citizenship test."

DEVYANI PRABHAT, UNIVERSITY OF BRISTOL

How many questions could you answer in a pub quiz about British values?

Designed to ensure new migrants have accepted British values and integrated, the UK's Citizenship Test is often portrayed as a bad pub quiz with answers few citizens know. With the launch of a new post-Brexit immigration system, this is a critical time to change the test.

Thom Brooks draws on first-hand experience of taking the test, and interviews with key figures, including past Home Secretaries, to expose the test as ineffective and a barrier to citizenship. This accessible guide offers recommendations for transforming the Citizenship Test into a 'bridge to citizenship' which fosters greater inclusion and integration.

Assessing the Potential of Class Actions in England and Wales

Michael Molavi, University of Oxford

"Class action reform is a work in progress. Molavi's book is an important addition to the debate. It repays careful reading by all engaged in the subject."

JOHN SORABJI, UNIVERSITY COLLEGE LONDON

At a time when the collective redress landscape is undergoing a period of transformative change, this important and timely research focuses on class actions in England and Wales.

The author provides an objective analysis of the costs and benefits of these proceedings from an access-to-justice perspective.

Aiming to promote accessibility, this pioneering work separates fact from fiction in an easily digestible way, offering progressive solutions for reform.

Enemies of the People?

How Judges Shape Society

Joshua Rozenberg, Journalist and broadcaster

"Every bit as masterful as you'd expect. Incisive, gripping, timely, I can't recommend it enough."

SECRET BARRISTER

Do judges use the power of the state for the good of the nation?

When newspapers reported a court ruling on Brexit, senior judges were shocked to see themselves condemned as enemies of the people.

But that did not stop them ruling that an order made by the Queen on the advice of her prime minister was just 'a blank piece of paper'.

Joshua Rozenberg, Britain's best-known commentator on the law, asks how judges can maintain public confidence while making hard choices.

Alan Greene, University of Birmingham

"Dr Greene directs his inimitable expertise on states of emergency to address the challenge of our time, COVID-19. A crucial text critically evaluating the state's response to the pandemic."

JANE M ROONEY, DURHAM UNIVERSITY

Declaring a state of emergency is the best way to protect public health in a pandemic but how do these powers differ from those for national security and economic crises?

This book explores how human rights, democracy and the rule of law can be protected during a pandemic and how emergency powers can best be ended once it wanes.

Written by an expert on constitutional law and human rights, this accessible book will shape how governments, opposition, courts and society view future pandemic emergency powers.

Emma Jones, University of Sheffield, Neil Graffin, Rajvinder Samra, The Open University and Mathijs Lucassen, The Open University and University of Auckland

"An important, timely and insightful contribution to a debate about wellbeing and mental health in law that is of growing importance internationally."

RICHARD COLLIER, NEWCASTLE UNIVERSITY

Legal professionals are thought to have higher levels of mental health issues and lower levels of wellbeing than the general population.

This exploration of mental health and wellbeing in the UK and Republic of Ireland's legal sector is a timely addition to international debates on this topic. It uses qualitative research to explore the ways cultural, structural and other factors impact upon practitioners, the legal profession and wider society, and suggests interventions to improve wellbeing.

Cohabitation and Religious Marriage

Status, Similarities and Solutions

Edited by Rajnaara C. Akhtar, De Montfort University, Patrick Nash, University of Cambridge and Rebecca Probert, University of Exeter

"A timely and important contribution to our understanding of what is probably the most intractable current problem in marriage law in England and Wales."

FRANK CRANMER, CARDIFF UNIVERSITY

Cohabiting couples and those entering religious-only marriages all too often end up with inadequate legal protection when the relationship ends. Yet, despite this shared experience, the linkages and overlaps between these two groups have largely been ignored in the legal literature.

Based on wide-ranging empirical studies, this timely book explores the complexities of the law, the different ways in which individuals experience and navigate the gaps in the existing legal framework and the potential solutions for reform.

Accountability and Review in the Counter-Terrorist State

Jessie Blackbourn, Durham University, Fiona de Londras and Lydia Morgan, University of Birmingham

"Democracy requires intrusive state powers, used on the basis of secret intelligence, to be subject to strong independent review. This book helps define what that review should look like."

LORD ANDERSON OF IPSWICH, FORMER INDEPENDENT REVIEWER OF TERRORISM LEGISLATION

Counter-terrorism is now a permanent and sprawling part of the legislative and operational apparatus of the state. However, little is known about the law and practice of how it is reviewed, how effective the review mechanisms are, what impact they have, or how they interact with one another.

This book presents the first analysis of counter-terrorism review in the United Kingdom, informed by interviews with policy makers, politicians, practitioners and civil society.

Decriminalising Abortion in the UK

What Would It Mean?

Edited by Sally Sheldon, University of Kent and Kaye Wellings, London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine

"Abortion plays a fundamental role in women's health but is often shrouded in myth and hyperbole. This lucid and accessible text provides robust and reliable evidence on this important issue."

PROFESSOR DAME LESLEY REGAN DBE, MD DSC, ROYAL COLLEGE OF OBSTETRICIANS AND GYNAECOLOGISTS

Available Open Access under CC-BY-NC licence.

The public and parliamentary debate about UK abortion law is often diverted away from key moral and political questions by disputes regarding basic questions of fact. And all too often, claims of scientific 'fact' are ideologically driven.

With each chapter written by leading experts in the fields of medicine, law, reproductive health and social science, this book offers a concise and authoritative account of the evidence regarding the likely impact of decriminalisation.

Co-Editors: Jon Burnett, Swansea University, UK,
Ida Nafstad, Lund University, Sweden and Lisa White, University of Lincoln, UK.

Consulting Editor: Vicky Canning, University of Bristol, UK

We are pleased to announce an exciting addition to the Policy Press journals list for 2021: Justice, Power and Resistance (JPR). JPR is the journal of the European Group for the Study of Deviance and Social Control and is currently published by EG Press. We are delighted to be relaunching the journal with a special double issue: Pandemics, Policing and Protest.

Justice, Power and Resistance is an international, peer-reviewed journal promoting critical analysis and connecting theory, politics and activism. Working towards social justice, state accountability and decarceration, the journal is primarily a vehicle to make accessible and advance challenging research and scholarship that can be utilised to critically inform contemporary debates and policies.

More information will be available on our website shortly.

Ebooks

All our books are available as ePubs and ePDFs through a wide range of eBook providers.

Library customers can purchase our eBooks from a range of digital platforms and library aggregators, including: JSTOR, EBSCO, ProQuest, IG Publishing and CNEIPC.

Our digital monograph collections are available through Policy Press Scholarship Online (PPSO) in partnership with Oxford University Press, and will be launching in Cambridge Core and Project Muse in Spring 2021.

Our etextbooks are available to buy through Kortext, VitalSource and Perlego. Individual eBooks are also available from online bookshops including Amazon Kindle, Google Play, Kobo and eBooks.com.

You can purchase eBooks (ePUB) directly from us at bristoluniversitypress.co.uk. If you buy an ePub on our website, you will need to read it using Adobe Digital Editions (ADE) reader software as our eBooks are DRM-protected. To download ADE on your computer, go here.

See here for further information.
