Secrets and Silence

Uncovering the Legacy of the Cleveland Child Sexual Abuse Case

Beatrix Campbell, writer and broadcaster

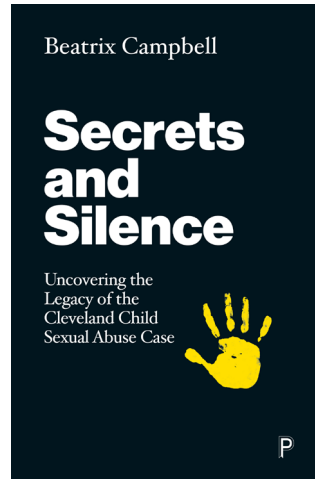

"A shocking indictment of state neglect and complicity in child sexual abuse. Essential reading for anyone who cares about truth, accountability and justice."

HARRIET WISTRICH, LAWYER AND DIRECTOR OF THE CENTRE FOR WOMEN'S JUSTICE

When paediatricians in the English county of Cleveland identified evidence of rape in 121 children seen in hospital in 1987, they were discredited. Children were sent home and the public assured that there was no widespread problem of sexual abuse.

Renowned journalist Beatrix Campbell gives profound new insights into Cleveland, the Child Support Agency in the UK and beyond, the current Independent Inquiry into Child Sexual Abuse, and current policy on child protection in the UK.

Using interviews with the children and professionals in the case and a fresh scrutiny of documents in the National Archive, she provides an important must-read book for practitioners and anyone interested in this burning issue of our times.

Contextual Safeguarding

The Next Chapter

Edited by Carlene Firmin and Jenny Lloyd,
Durham University

“One of the best books about social work that I have read...essential reading.”

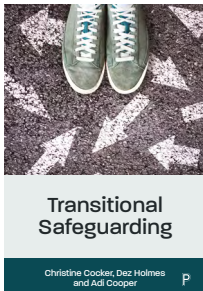

DONALD FORRESTER, CARDIFF UNIVERSITY

The Contextual Safeguarding approach has transformed how policy makers, social care leaders, practitioners and researchers understand harm that happens to young people in their communities and what is required to respond. This book shares stories from child sexual exploitation, child criminal exploitation and peer violence about what has been learned on this journey. For anyone interested in how we safeguard young people beyond their front doors, this book shows how much we have achieved and raises big questions about what more we need to do to ensure young people are safe – whatever the context.

Critical Social Work with Children and Families

Theory, Context and Practice
2nd edition

Steve Rogowski, independent scholar and former Social Worker

"A critical perspective is more important than ever, and this new edition places this perspective front and centre."

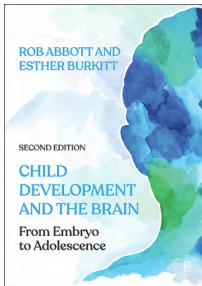

JOE HANLEY, THE OPEN UNIVERSITY

Critical social work (CSW) is an emancipatory practice which seeks to address social injustice. In this book the author draws on almost 40 years' experience as a social worker to consider CSW in core areas of practice with children and families. Fully updated to cover the impact of austerity, Brexit, the COVID-19 pandemic and cost of living crisis, and with expanded coverage of race and intersectionality, contextual safeguarding and critical child protection, this accessible textbook is essential reading for students, educators and child and family social workers.

Child Development and the Brain

From Embryo to Adolescence
2nd edition

Rob Abbott and Esther Burkitt,
University of Chichester

“An engaging, readable book ... uses accessible language and examples that enable everyone to understand developmental neuroscience.”

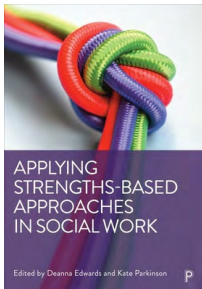

JANE DORRIAN, THE OPEN UNIVERSITY

This bestselling textbook provides an accessible introduction to neuroscience and the implications for our understandings of child development. Now covering the 0–18+ age range, the new edition critically analyses the relationship between children and young people’s thoughts, behaviours and feelings and the ways in which their developing brains are structured. It includes a new section on emotional development in adolescence, considering the impact of drugs and alcohol on the brain and the role of brain changes in driving risky behaviours.

Critical Gerontology for Social Workers

Edited by Sandra Torres, Uppsala University and Sarah Donnelly, University College Dublin

“Will help prepare future generations of social workers to serve and advocate for the older adult population. I highly recommend this book.”

JOURNAL OF GERONTOLOGICAL SOCIAL WORK

This original collection explores how critical gerontology can make sense of old age inequalities to inform and improve social work research, policy and practice and empower older people. With examples of practice-facing research, this book engages with key debates on age-related human rights and social justice issues.

The critical and conceptual focus will expand the horizons of those who work with older people, addressing the current challenges, issues and opportunities that they face.

Edited by Vasilios Ioakimidis, Durham University and Aaron Wyllie, University of Essex

"This essential book invites us to look backwards, to move forward with our ethics intact."

RORY TRUELL, SECRETARY-GENERAL OF THE INTERNATIONAL FEDERATION OF SOCIAL WORKERS

This book rethinks social work's legacy and history of both political resistance and complicity with oppressive and punitive practices. Using a comparative approach with international case studies, it uncovers the role of social workers in politically tense episodes of recent history, including the anti-racist struggle in the US and the impact of colonialism in Australia, New Zealand and Canada.

Decolonising Social Work in Finland

Racialisation and Practices of Care

Edited by Kris Clarke, University of Helsinki, Leece Lee-Oliver, California State University and Satu Ranta-Tyrkkö, University of Jyväskylä

"This powerful book offers a deep understanding of coloniality in the Nordic countries and beyond."

KRISTÍN LOFTSDÓTTIR, UNIVERSITY OF ICELAND

Introduction and Chapter 10 available open access under CC-BY-NC-ND licence.

This book examines the contemporary social care realities and practices of Finland. It interrogates coloniality, racialisation and diversity in the context of Finnish social work and social care and brings together racialised and mainstream White Finnish researchers, activists and community members to challenge relations of epistemic violence on racialised populations in Finland.

Understanding Mental Distress

Knowledge, Practice and Neoliberal Reform in Community Mental Health Services

Rich Moth, Manchester Metropolitan University

"An important theoretically informed contribution."

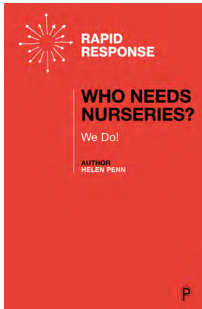

CRITICAL SOCIAL POLICY

In this timely analysis, Rich Moth explores the impacts of policy reform, marketisation and austerity on NHS mental health provision, and positions developments in the contexts of neoliberalism and an increased emphasis on individual responsibility, developing a stimulating perspective on how mental distress is understood and responded to within these settings.

Who Needs Nurseries?

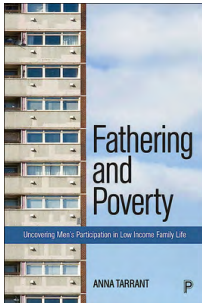

We Do!

Helen Penn, Emeritus Professor, University of East London

In the UK, there is little consensus about what nurseries should provide, how they should be run, and who should pay for them. Some countries, particularly in the Nordic regions, have managed to deal with these issues coherently, but the current blanket solutions in the UK, which are geared towards fiscal priorities, may need rethinking. This topical book looks at who benefits from using nurseries, who can access them and who should provide them.

Fathering and Poverty

Uncovering Men's Participation in Low-Income Family Life

Anna Tarrant, University of Lincoln

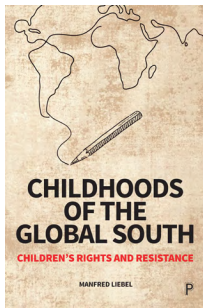

"A sensitive and moving portrayal of men 'on the margins' gets to the heart of debates about poverty, gender and the shaping of contemporary families."

BREN NEALE, UNIVERSITY OF LEEDS

Anna Tarrant's revealing research explores men's caring responsibilities in low-income families' lives, interrogating how this is affected by the resources available and the constraints upon them, considering intersections of gender, generation and work, as well as the impact of austerity and welfare support.

Childhoods of the Global South

Children's Rights and Resistance

Manfred Liebel, Technical University Berlin and University of Applied Sciences Potsdam

"A much-needed, beautifully written book infused with a belief in children's dignity and humanity. It is a passionate call for understanding childhoods from a decolonial perspective."

HEATHER MONTGOMERY, THE OPEN UNIVERSITY

This book explores the challenges of promoting children's rights in a context of decolonisation, giving insights into the political lives of children and demonstrating ways in which their rights can be made meaningful at the grassroots level. Looking to the future, it considers how collaborative research with children can counteract their marginalisation and oppression in society.

Global Perspectives on Youth Arts Programs

How and Why the Arts Can Make a Difference

Frances Howard, Nottingham Trent University

"A much-needed map of the territory, inviting us to consider cultural production by young people as an essential democratic practice."

JANET BATSLEER, MANCHESTER METROPOLITAN UNIVERSITY

How can youth arts support participatory democracy and social change? Frances Howard puts forward a powerful case for the value of youth arts programs, covering unequal access to provision and the class-based harm that can be inadvertently practised within them. Drawing on the author's own practice experience, alongside a range of international case studies, this grounded and accessible text will be welcome reading to academics, students and practitioners across Education, Youth and Community courses.

Innovation in Social Care

New Approaches for Young People Affected by Extra-Familial Risks and Harms

Michelle Lefevre, University of Sussex, Nathalie Huegler, University of Sussex, Jenny Lloyd, Durham University, Rachael Owens, Durham University, Jeri Damman, University of Sussex, Gillian Ruch, University of Sussex, Carlene Firmin, Durham University

"This highly informative book offers policy makers and practitioners a clear account of what it takes to successfully use innovation to improve practice."

LOUISE BROWN, UNIVERSITY OF BATH

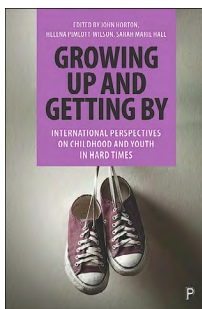

EPDF and EPUB available Open Access under CC-BY-NC-ND licence.

Based on the findings of the Innovate Project, a four year pan-UK study to identify the processes of innovation in care, this book asks: how can services be re-envisioned and transformed through innovation? The authors provide an overview of the project findings and offer insights into the core conditions necessary for socially just and practice-congruent social care innovation.

Biographical Research and the Meanings of Mothering

Life Choices, Identities and Methods

Edited by Lyudmila Nurse, University of Oxford, Lisa Moran, Technological University of the Shannon and Kateřina Sidiropulu-Janků, Carinthia University of Applied Sciences

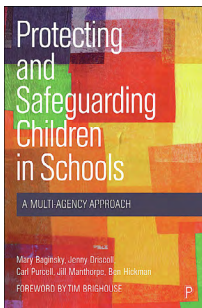

“Challenge[s] many stereotypes and shine[s] a beautifully clear light on real-life experiences.”

GAYLE LETHERBY, PLYMOUTH UNIVERSITY, GREENWICH UNIVERSITY AND BATH UNIVERSITY

This book extensively applies biographical and narrative research methods to mothering from international perspectives, engaging with changing attitudes and approaches to mothering from women’s individual biographical experiences, illuminating how socially anticipated tasks of mothering shaped through interlinking state, media, religious beliefs and broader society are reflected in their identities and individual life choices.

Protecting and Safeguarding Children in Schools

A Multi-Agency Approach

Edited by Mary Baginsky, Jenny Driscoll, Carl Purcell, Jill Manthorpe and Ben Hickman, NIHR Health & Social Care Workforce Research Unit, King’s College London

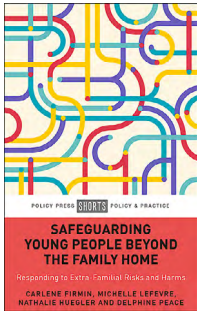

“Essential reading.”

JUNE STATHAM, UCL INSTITUTE OF EDUCATION

This book highlights the findings of a study on the child protection role played by schools, their decision-making processes and involvement in interagency working. Crucial reading for academics, practitioners and managers in children’s social care and education, it evaluates the impact of recent policy developments, including the Academies and Free Schools programme, as well as local authority children’s services.

The Dynamics of Young Fatherhood

Understanding the Parenting Journeys and Support Needs of Young Fathers

Bren Neale, University of Leeds and Anna Tarrant, University of Lincoln

"One of the most important books on adolescent and young adult fathers ever published."
MARK S. KISELICA, PENN STATE HARRISBURG

Using findings from a major Economic and Social Research Council study, the authors examine the transitions of the young men into early parenthood and their unfolding lives thereafter. As negative discourse around young fathers begins to shift, policy makers, practitioners, researchers and students will find future policy and practice directions designed to nurture the potential of these young men and their children.

Understanding Abuse in Young People's Intimate Relationships

Female Perspectives on Power, Control and Gendered Social Norms

Ceryl Teleri Davies, Bangor University

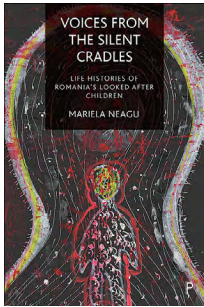

"Useful and engaging...flows perfectly from naming and framing the issues to proposing clear solutions."

SARA KIRKPATRICK, WELSH WOMEN'S AID

Essential reading for those working with young people, this book makes a vital contribution to the study of gender-based violence. It reveals young women's understandings of what it means to have a healthy relationship, and considers the influence of gendered social norms within both healthy and abusive relationships.

Voices from the Silent Cradles

Life Histories of Romania's Looked-After Children

Mariela Neagu, University of Oxford

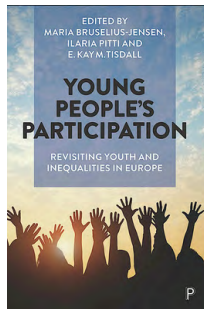

"The strength of this book is that the reader is presented with the factors affecting young people's life chances, along with lessons for current policy and practice."

ADOPTION & FOSTERING

This book sheds light on the lived experiences of the 'Romanian orphans', who had become adults by the time the country joined the EU. Uniquely, the book brings together the accounts of those who stayed in institutions, those who grew up in foster care and those who were adopted, both in Romania and internationally. Their narratives challenge stereotypes about these types of care.

Young People's Participation

Revisiting Youth and Inequalities in Europe

Edited by Maria Bruselius-Jensen, Aalborg University, Ilaria Pitti, University of Siena and Kay Tisdall, Edinburgh University

"A treasure trove for scholars and activists across Europe."

JANET BATSLEER, MANCHESTER METROPOLITAN UNIVERSITY

Focusing on the concepts of youth, inequality and participation, this book explores how structural changes, including economic austerity, neoliberal policies and new patterns of migration, affect the conditions of young people's participation and its aims. With contributions from subject experts, including young people themselves, the book challenges current policies and practices on young people's participation. It asks how young people can be better supported to take part in social change and decision making and what can be learned from young people's own initiatives.

Supporting New Digital Natives

Children's Mental Health and Wellbeing in a Hi-Tech Age

Edited by Michelle Jayman, University of Roehampton, Maddie Ohl, University of West London and Leah Jewett, Outspoken Sex Ed

"All these studies describe either the use of technology to enhance mental wellbeing or the intentional removal of technology to eliminate a technology-driven issue – the intersection of which is a balance the new digital natives of our generation will be forced to eventually navigate themselves."

TECHNICAL COMMUNICATION

How can we support children's and young people's mental wellbeing in a digital age?

Through a series of informative and thought-provoking case studies, this book explores how to enable children and young people to stay safe, happy and mentally healthy at a time when so much of their lives is spent online.

Featuring contributions from across research and practice, with the voice of the child at its heart, the book offers simple, practical guidance for improving wellbeing based on real-world evidence. It will be essential reading for parents, carers and professionals working with children across a range of school and community settings.

European Social Work Research

Volume 2 | 2024 | 3 issues

Editor in Chief: Lars Uggerhøj, Aalborg University, Denmark

Co-Editors: Elaine Sharland, University of Sussex, UK and Ana M. Sobočan, University of Ljubljana, Slovenia

European Social Work Research is the flagship journal of the European Social Work Research Association and is dedicated to the development, practice and utilisation of social work research. It is the only Europe-wide journal to focus uniquely on social work research and its intended audience is scholars, students, practitioners, policy makers and other researchers who have an interest in social problems, social work and the contribution that social work makes to just and equitable societies.

"I am delighted that this new journal is ready to launch and am confident that the editorial team will secure high-quality contributions related to all aspects of social work research in both European and international contexts."

IMPACT FACTOR 1.2 | CITE SCORE 1.5

Editor in Chief: Michael Lavalette, Liverpool Hope University, UK

Deputy Editors: Dimitra-Dora Teloni, University of West Attica, Greece and Charlotte Williams, Bangor University, UK

Critical and Radical Social Work promotes debate and scholarship around a range of engaged social work themes.

The journal publishes papers which seek to analyse and respond to the latest issues in the field, such as the impact of global neoliberalism on social welfare, austerity and social work, social work and social movements and the ways that social work intersects with inequality and oppression.

It welcomes contributions that consider and question themes relating to the definition of social work and social work professionalism, that look at ways in which organic and 'indigenous' practice can expand concepts of the social work project and that consider alternative and radical histories of social work activity.

As a truly international journal, it actively encourages contributions from academics, scholars and practitioners from across the global village.

"A much-needed outlet for social workers to promote innovative and challenging standpoints."
